What is the Reason?

THE recent appointment of a member of the famous or infamous Jenny Lind Clul of Milwaukee, to the responsible and lucrative position of Postmaster in the commercial metropolis of the State, upon the unanimous recommendation of the Republican members of Congress, calls for a word of comment.

It is well known that it is the pride and boast of the aforesaid club, that they defeated Hon. John F. Potter for Cougress when he was last a candidate, one of the purest and soundest, as well as the brayest men that ever held a seat there, and it is well known, also, that the defeat of Mr. Potter resulted in the election of Mr. James S. Brown, who was brought up at the feet of E. G. Ryan, and whose political disciple and follower he is. Now what we would like to know is, what justification is there in our delegation rewarding a man who turned upon his own party friends and went over to the enemy? It is obvious enough that one of our Senators might dislike Mr. Potter because the latter was once a candidate against him for the United States Senate, and it is easy enough to see that Assistant Postmuster Randall, and the other Senator might have a vivid recollection of the time when Mr. Potter worked vigorously for Mr. Washburne as against them both when they were candidates for the United States Sen. ate, but we are not clear motives of the members to the priving the state and nation of the valuable services of such men as Mr. Potter, 1905 can the political and personal friends of the latter reward them with positions of honor and profit? OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

The telegraph says that Eldridge dodged the vote on Washburn's amendment taxing whisky. It is very likely he dodged the vote, but we'll warrant he wouldn't have dodged the whisky.

What is the Reason?

THE recent appointment of a member of the famous or infamous Jenny Lind Club of Milwaukee, to the responsible and lucrative position of Postmaster in the commercial metropolis of the State, upon the unanimous recommendation of the Republican members of Congress, calls for a word of comment. It is well known that it is the pride and boast of the aforesaid club, that they defeated Hon. John F. Potter for Congress when he was last a candidate, one of the purest and soundest, as well as the bravest mon that ever held a seat there, and it is well known, also, that the defeat of Mr. Potter resulted in the election of Mr. James S. Brown, who was brought up at the feet of E. G. Ryan, and whose polisical disciple and follower he is. Now what we would like to know is, what justification is there in our delegation rewarding a man who turned upon his own party friends and went over to the enemy? It is obvious enough that one of our Senators might dislike Mr. Potter because the latter was once a candidate against him for the United States Senate, and it is easy enough to see that Assistant Postmaster Randall, and the other Senator might have a vivid recollection of the time when Mr. Potter worked vigorously for Mr. Washburne as against them both when they were candidates for the United States Senbut we are not clear as the motives of the members of the lower house in this particular.

If men who claim to be Republicans desert their party and party friends' in the hour of need, and are instrumental in de.

priving the state and nation of the valuable services of such men as Mr. Potter, tors can the political and personal friends of the latter roward them with positions of honor and profit? We pause for a reply.

THE MILWAUKEE Nows says: "Three years ago last winter three quiet and unassuming gentlemen stopped at the Newhall House in this city, on the same day, who had never dreamed of the distinction to which they have since arrived. They were Geo. G. Meade, and Wm. F. Smith and Rapheal Semmes. The first was a plain captain in the army, and had charge of our lake surveys; the second was the inspector of this lighthouse district, and the last was connected with the light house board at Washington. Now one of them is a Major General in command of the Army of the Potomac; another is also a Major General, and has just been appointed under Builer at Fortress Monroe: ted under Butler at Fortress Monroe; He uttered the following supplication very and the other is one of the most notorious audibly:—'We pray Thee, O Lord! to and successful privateers who ever sailed on give to the counselors and statesmen of the great deep."

ter. He says: I know sensible and sagacious men who are warm patriots too, who are now buying and selling property in this city, under the conviction that Grant will feated and gold rise to 200. I cannot blame them. for they say they must provide for that dread fortune. Opinions so widely differ, that I would say that a majority of those I meet think that Grant must go down before Lee. These are not Southern men, but persons who have reaua Creek, on the 20th inst. He was son for believing that Lee has the best riding a sawlog, when the log rolled him army, and that there are treacherous officers yet in command in the Army of the Potomac, and who will fail to do their whole duty when Grant fights his battle with Lee. That is the imminent fear. large new welen factory has just been put | But I learn that Gen. Grant does not intend to rely solely upon the Army of the Potomac. Three corps are to come from the West-one of these General Hurlbut's corps, contains a number of Wisconsin regiments. When these 60,000 men arrive in Virginia Grant will be prepared to meet Lee, but not before. They are coming now. Grant will not be ready before the 15th of May, perhaps not until the first of June. In the meanwhile, we must expect every possible discouragement-defeat and disaster elsewhere, and a gloom more profound than that which covered the country previous to Vicksburg and Donelson. hen the sun does shine it will illuminate the whole continent from the Bay of Fundy to the banks of the Rio Grande. The retention of Gen. Halleck is considered one of Grant's misfortunes, but that appointment, it is believed here, has been forced on him by President Lincoln. It was expected and intended when Grant was made a Lieutenant General, the counrepresentation from all parts of the State the President has buffled the wishes of Congress and the people. Yet Grant is a steady hand over Halleck, and may preventhim doing any mischief or negle any duty The appointment of Smith, Sheridan and McPherson to army corps in Virginia is deemed a good sign, but these appointments spring from Gen Grant and not from the President. The reports to-day are that Lee is moving to attack Grant—the latter is not ready sary. and that Lee must know, and his wise opportunity is to assail Grant at once. Hence it is possible that we may have a fight in Virginia before the middle of May, but we do not think that the really decisive battle will be fought until the western corps joins Grant, sarmy. Then he dare icism, Mr. Sumuer dropped his head upon his breast quite feelingly, Jim Lane rolled his eyes quite piously, Garrett Davis evinced signs of emotion, and a gentleman in the reporters' gallery uttered an emphatic 'Ameu!' by way of a second to the venture on hold operations, and the pecple may be assured if Lee comes within striking distance, the thunderbolt will not

On Friday morning last the U. S. gunboat No. 5 was captured by the rebels on Yazoo river above Haine's Bluff. She was tied to a bank, when a party of rebels unexpectedly made their appearance from the adjoining woods, boarded her, and be-fore her officers and men could get her out into the stream, made her capture. When this news reached the authorities above Vicksburg the steamer Continental and other boats were turned back.

On Sunday last a Mr. Vooser formerly in command of a U.S. colored regiment, was executed near Hame's Bluff by the rebels. The only charge made against him was that he had led colored troops.

DISASTROUS FIRE NEW HAVEN, May 1.—The largest fire that we have had for thirty years took place last night. The melodeon factory of Treat & Davis, the carriage factories of Co. J. T. Goodrich and Bunco & Co., the silver plating shop of G. Galbraith, the Daven port mission chapel, two private residences and a brick barn were destroyed.

One mais whose name could not be ascertained perished in the flames. Total loss by fire was from $85,000 to $90,000. Insurance or't which is about $33,000.

The thinking and unbiased portion of the community will appreciate the great advantage of a permanent and reliable Institute for the cure of chronic diseases that usually both the skill of the general practicioner.

Catarra, that great promoting cause of Consumption in the Northwest, always gives way upon application of the new remedies. Dr. Hale has never encountered a case of this disease he could not cure. The present season is very favorable for applying proper remedies; delays are dangerous. Your case may be cutted this month, not next, today, not to-incrow.

All who are suffering from any of the diseases Dr. Hale makes a speciality in treating, should at least call and investigate the new system for themselves. No person of good sense and sound judgment will, without full end caroful investigation, denounce as "humburg" that which claims to prosess merit. Dr. Hale takes pleasure in referring to the following rasponsible purties, cliftens of Janesrille, who cament, not to mantion hundreds of others in the Northwest that have been cured:

Saving the Constitution, We publish in another part of this issue, a letter from Mr. Lincoln to A. G. It can easily be seen by the drift of the Prosident's letter that in the conversation alluded to, the unconstitutionality of employing colored men, either free or slave,. had been urged upon the attention of Mr. Lincoln, and in his reply to them, he disposes of the arguments of some others that are often urged in a latitude much farther.

I had publically declared this many times, and in Doctor, "you will be dry enough as soon many ways. And I aver that, to this day as you get to preaching." north than Kentucky, and by a class of men less earnest, if possible, in their desire to see the rebellion put down and its originators punished, than the milk and water patriots of the horder states. Saving the constitution at the expense of the nation's life is worthy of that sublime theory of government enunciated by Buchan-an, when he asserted that a state had no right to second, but if it did do so, then there was no power in the constitution to compel it to return. The true patriot and statesman will save the country if possible without seeing one jut or tittle of the constitution pass away, but if the exigencies of the times require him to make the choice between the destruction of the nation and the total loss of all civil government, or to allow some slight infraction of minor matter, I should permit the wreck the written instrument, he will not hesitate long which it shall be. And the copperheads altogether. of to-day who are so clamorous that the war shall be prosecuted according to the strictest letter of the constitution will indispensable necessity. When, a little find an answer and food for reflection in later, Gen. Cameron, then Secretary of the letter of the President to Mr. Hodges. But there is one feature of this letter, which; while it may happily illustrate the President's honesty of purpose in adminiatering the affairs of the nation, cannot be said to set forth his deep sagacity and prescience as a great statesman in any very enviable light. He says: "When, early in the war, Gen. Fremont attempted military emancipation, I forbade it, because I did not then think it an indispensable necessity. When, a little later, Gen. Cameron, then Secretary of War, suggesthad come."

In telling this tale, I but the almighty dollar, thought he saw it, though whether from motives of principle ty. I claim not to have controlled events, or policy, those who know him best are at trolled me. Now, at the end of three consequence of the belief entertained by him, now wills the removal of a great wrong, that the people were not yet ready for what and wills also that we of the north, as well benefit of all the money that he pays into advance of their rulers, and really lead the history will find therein new causes to atpoliticians instead of the politicians leading | God. them. Everybody remembers with what gladness the people all over the free States, hailed Frement's proclamation when it was issued in Missouri, nor can any one have forgotten the sorrow that took the place of joy in all loyal hearts, when the President's mighty arm was stretched forth to rivit the chains again upon limbs thus made free. It was said that the movement was premature—the President unprepared at that time, we re the copperheads at the North and the shive-holders mits that he did not adopt the emancipation policy until it became indispensably necessary to save the nation, and the question naturally arises would not there have been less peril to the country had he adopted it before the necessity was so imperative. Would there not have been less prograstination and a much more vigorous prosecution of the war, had the President listened to the suggestive voice that came to him from Fremout in Missouri and from the now lamented Hunter in South Carolina, where traitors are indigenous to the soil? So it seems to us, and although the copperhead riots in New York and elsewhere would have culminated a little sooner in consequence, they would have been as easily put down and the war have been much nearer its close to-day than it now is.

And the greatest objection that now exists in the minds of the loyal people of the States, to the re-nomination of Ahraham Lincoln for the high and vastly responsi- of my pet heroes. It is true that the Company has neither age; is doing a large business, having issued 637 policies in the months of December and January just passed, and is doing its business as economically as the same can be done anywhere. It has for its guide, the experience of all older companies, and among its managers some of the best business men in the northwest.

This is the first successful effort ever made to build up a similar institution in the West, and it should be the pride, as it certainly is the interest, of every business man in this section of the State. to identify himself with its growth.

This Company issues non-forfeiting policies, upon which premiums are paid in five or ten annual payments. These nonforfeiting policies are very desirable, as they guarantee to the policy holder the the Company, and also enable him to pay his premiums for the whole of life while he is young, or at an early period, thus relieving him from the burden of payment in old age. Insurance upon this plan. (as well as on all other policies that this Company issues) become due and payable at death, should death occur before the ten years expire.

It also issues the endowment policy which becomes due and pagette is the party assured at a stated age specified. These latter policies are becoming quite popular, and are particularly desirable for

Saving the Constitution,

We publish in another part of this issue, a letter from Mr. Lincoln to A. G. Hodges Esq., of Kontucky, in which the President gives to the public the arguments with which he attempted to assuage the grief state men who got indignant because the colored element of the country was made use of in defeating those who would destroy the liberty of both white and black.

It can easily be seen by the drift of the had been urged upon the attention of Mr. Lincoln, and in his reply to them, he disposes of the arguments of some others that are often urged in a latitude much farther morth than Kentucky, and by a class of men loss carnest, if possible, in their desire to see the rebellion put down and its originators punished, than the milk and water patriots of the horder states. Saving the constitution at the expense of the nation's life is worthy of that sublime the , ory of government enunciated by Buchanan, when he asserted that a state had no right to secode, but if it did do so, then there was no power in the constitution to compel it to return. The true patriot and statesman will save the country if possible without seeing one jot or tittle of the constitution pass away, but if the exigencies of the times require him to make the choice between the destruction of the nation and the total loss of all civil government, or to allow some slight infraction of the written instrument, he will not hesitate long which it shall be. And the copperheads of to-day who are so clamorous that the war shall be prosecuted according to the strictest letter of the constitution will the letter of the President to Mr. Hodges. But there is one feature of this letter, which; while it may happily illustrate the President's honcety of purpose in administering the affairs of the nation, cannot be said to set forth his deep sagacity and prescience as a great statesman in any very enviable light. He says: "When, early in the war, Ger. Fremont attempted military emancipation, I forbade it, because I did not then think it an indispensable necessity. When, a little later, Gen. Cameron, then Secretary of War, suggested the arming of the blacks, I objected to it; because I did not yet think it an indispensable necessity. When, still later, Gen. Hunter attempted military emancipation, I again forbade it; because I did not yet think the indispensable necessity had come." Whatever the President may have thought then of the "indispensable necessity," he cannot be so blind now as not to see that Gen. Fremont struck the key note of the correct policy when he attempted that military emancipation which the President forbade. And it to divine why Mr. Lincoln should wait until blood shed and disaster should have so that the great day of "indispinsible necossity" had arrived. Fremont saw it and Hunter saw it, and even the selfish and sordid Cameron who seldom sees anything but the almighty dollar, though whether from motives of principle them where they would be, but for the measure he condemns. If he cannot face he cannot face he truth.

Full descriptions, recommendations and directions accompany though whether from motives of principle. or policy, those who know him best are at no loss to determine. This we regard as the great mistake of the President's official pareor, and a blunder into which he fell in consequenceof the belief entertained by him, that the people were not yet ready for what advance of their rulers, and really lead the politicians instead of the politicians leading them. Everybody remembers with what gladness the people all over the free States, hailed Fremont's proclamation when it was issued in Missouri, nor can any one have forgotten the sorrow that took the place of joy in all loyal hearts, when the President's mighty arm was stretched forth to rivit the chains again upon limbs thus made free. It was said that the movement was promature—the President thought so himself, but the only parties unprepared at that time, we re the copperheads at the North and the slave-holders of the South. Mr. Lincoln virtually admits that he did not adopt the emancipation policy until it became indispensably necessary to save the nation, and the question anturally arises would not there have been less peril to the country had he adopt ed it before the necessity was so imperative. Would there not have been less procrastination and a much more vigorous prosecution of the war, had the President listened much nearer its close to-day than it now is. And the greatest objection that now exists in the minds of the loyal people of the States, to the re-nomination of Abraham Lincoln for the high and vastly responsible position which he now occupies, is that they distrust his timidity and tardiness, while they have the utmost faith in his ground on the subject of slavery.

ence to my abstract judgement and feeling I did not understand, however, that my duty of preserving by every indispensable means, that government—that nation, of which that constitution was the organic law. Was it possible to lose the nation, and yet preserve the constitution? By general law, life and limb must be protected; yet often a limb must be amon-tated to save a life, but a life is never wisely given to save a limb. I felt that measures, otherwise unconstitutional, might become lawful, by becoming indispensa-ble to preserve the constitution, through the preservation of the nation. Right or wrong, I assumed this ground, and now I avow it. I could not feel, that to the best of my ability I had even tried to preserve the constitution, if to save slavery, or any minor matter, I should permit the wreak of government, country and constitution

When, in March, and May, and July. 1862, I made earnest and successive ap peals to the border states to favor compen sated emancipation, I believe the indispensable necessity for military emancipation, and arming the blacks would come unless averted by that measure. They declined the proposition; and I was, in my best judgment, driven to the alternative of either surrendering the Union, and with it, the constitution, or of laying strong hands upon the colored element. I choose the latter. In choosing it, I hoped for greater gain than loss; but of this I was not entirely confident. More than a year of trial now shown no loss by it, in our foreign relations; none in our home popular sentiment; none in our white military force-no loss by it, any how, or any where On the contrary, it shows a gain of quite facts, there can be no cavilling. ABRAHAN LINCOLN. The Sanitary Fair in St. Louis.

The St. Louis Democrat of Saturday devotes three columns to an account of the preparations for the Mississippi Valley Fair. We copy the following interesting paragraphs:

"One of the happiest suggestions in connection with this Fair is the proposal to publish a daily paper during the progress of the exhibition. The name chosen s the Countersign, an appropriate title, for without the countersign no visitor ought to be allowed to pass the portals of the building. The publication of papers at Fairs has thus fur been quite a feature.

At Cincinnati the ladies published the Knoweech Western Western Committee. Knapsack, at Washington the Roll Call, at Brooklyn the Drum Beat, at Buffalo the Haversack, at Chicago the Picket Gourd. and at New York the Spirit of the Fair. We hope the Countersign will be the best of them all.

LETTER FROM LYDIA MARIA CHILD. The St. Louis Union says that Mrs. Child has forwarded to the Fair a set of her published works, accompanied by a letter in which she says:

"My heart always warms toward our western brethren. The young, brave, large-hearted, strong-handed West! How large-hearted, strong-handed West! How on a new system, which embraces the best and most approved method in this and other countries for the source of the contained fervently. -There was a wild wag of a fellow, by the name of Thornton, who one day got up during service and walked out of Church, making rather a prominent disbest of my ability, imposed upon me the play of a gold-beaded cane. The vicar, a well known eccentric character-with a wooden leg-immediately pounced upon him in this wise: "Pall that cane from under your arm, my young friend, and throw it away, for there are no gold headed canes in heaven." Whereupon Thornton, turning round, quickly replied, Pull that stick of wood out of your pants, my old friend, and throw it away. There are no wooden legs in heaven."

-There was a little boy who meurned bitterly the death of a pet guinea-pig. The night after the bereavement his watch-ful mother heard a plaintive call from the sleepless mourner in the nursery:

Mammu, have great big elephants souls?" "No, darling." A pause, and then in fainter tones:

Mamma, have exen souls?" "No no, dear. Go to sleep !" A longer nterval, and then the scarcely audible

oice piped again : " Mamma, have dogs souls?" The tender mother sees at last the drift of the zoological catechism, and grieves to answer as her conscionce bids:

"No, precious, I am afraid not." sijence-a sob-and then a beast-broken

"Oh, mamma ! haven't e-l-e-a-n white guinea-pigs souls?"

After having played on the Piano of Messra. Knabe & Co., it is impossible not to bear testimony to their qualities, which have acquired for them the eminent reputation which they enjoy. The Pianos of their manufactore, on which I have played, are exceedingly remarkable for their qualities. The bess is powerful without hardmass, and the upper notes aweet, clear and harmonicosly nellow, (chrystaline), and I do not hesitate to express in regard to these lustruments my entire satisfaction, and to declare that they are equal if not superior to the best manufactured in Europe or this country by the most calchated makers.

Januarille, March 5th, 1864. *207mr5dawtf Nothwithstanding the increase of nearly double in price over other years of all materials put in Respers, we are going to sell for 1861 at about the same prices as before. Our prices at the shop are $110 cash for single Reaper, for Reaper and Mower $140. We are making fifty Mowers, which will be warranted to do good work. They will be made of steel barsof the Buckoye pattern, except the hinges.

Those buying Reapers alone can have Mowers the next year or thereafter for the same price, as the difference between reaper and mower.

We do not deem it necessary to exted our Reaper, for it is already known to be the only two-horse Reaper in use. Notwithstanding a great many are used with two horses, they ought to use three of four, and some of them six, to be as easy to the horse as ours are two ordinary horses.
